RANGER 7 TRANSMITS PICTURES OF MOON

Spotlight Focuses On Humphrey, McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's sweeping knock-out of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and others from the lineup of vice presidential possibilities focused speculation today on Minnesota's Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Eugene J. McCarthy as his probable choice for a running mate.

In an unprecedented action Thursday the President eliminated nearly all the major possibilities for the No. 2 spot — including Kennedy, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The consensus among many knowledgeable Democrats was that Johnson, calculating that he has established his own political image strongly, wants to win elective office without leaning on any Kennedy.

The feeling was that to eliminate any emotional surge for the attorney general, the President was willing to eliminate a whole lineup of possible candidates he never really had considered.

Among those who hit the dust, only Shriver, a Roman Catholic and a brother-in-law of the late President Kennedy, and McNamara had received the sort of presidential praise that pointed toward them as potential candidates.

Among Those Knocked Off
U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, a two-time loser as Democratic standard bearer, was among those knocked out of consideration for second spot on the ticket to be chosen at the Democratic national convention which opens Aug. 24 in Atlantic City, N.J.

In his spray-gun action Thursday only six hours after telling a quickie news conference he had not decided on a running mate, Johnson included on his on-candidate list all cabinet members and those in government who have access to the White House for such gatherings.

One of those personally notified, who wasn't given a chance for the nomination in any event, was Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Another who was accorded a personal "no, thanks" was Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Commenting on his action, Johnson said he had decided it would be inadvisable to pick as a running mate any member of the cabinet or those who have

Blood Supply Shortage In Region Noted

Blood donor recruitment workers today were notified of an emergency and urged to make every effort to secure sufficient donors for the bloodmobile visit here next Thursday.

Louis J. Raymond, chairman of the northern district Red Cross blood program, said a serious blood shortage has developed at the region's blood center in Cleveland.

Raymond said Ralph DeLuca, administrative director of the northern Ohio Red Cross blood program, had informed him that if the low production continues, "We will not be able to supply blood to the participating hospitals of the region."

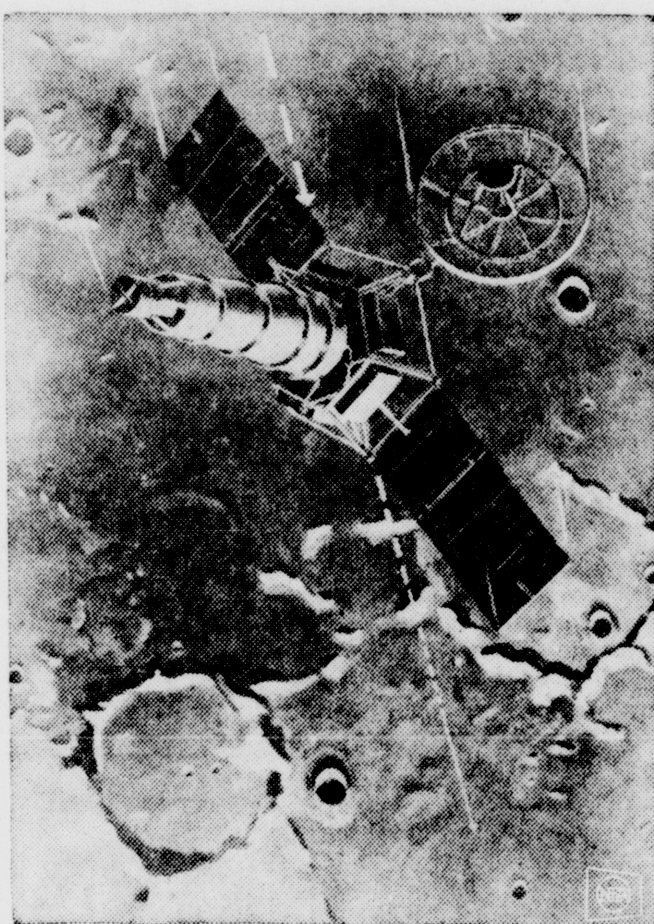

DeLuca blamed the excessive heat for failures of the local chapters to fill their quotas the past 12 days. It is more difficult to recruit donors during hot days, he said.

The local chapter failed to attain its goal at East Palestine July 23, the first visit of the new blood collection year. East Palestine residents gave 114 pints, 11 short of the quota.

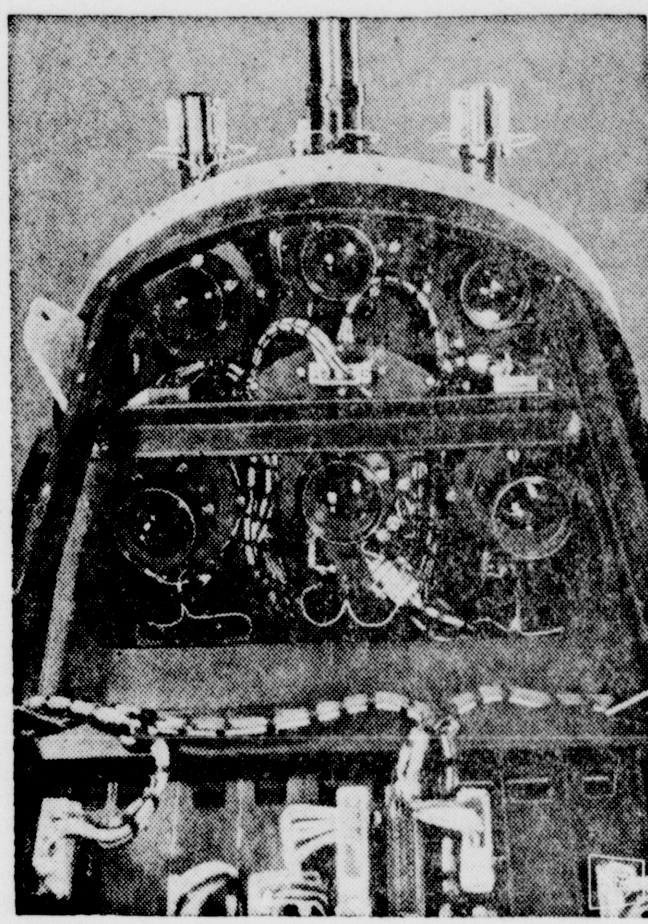

Raymond said recruiters must

Barry Security Ring Tightened

Attempts on Life Feared by Family

MONTE RIO, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican presidential candidate, relaxed today in Caveman's Camp at the exclusive Bohemian Grove.

Here among the towering trees, Goldwater is spending a couple of days as the guest of retired Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer and Herbert Hoover Jr. The senator's sons disclosed earlier that their family was fearful of an assassination attempt on his life. Barry Jr., 26, and Mike, 24, said at the close of their Hawaiian vacation Wednesday that extra security measures have been taken to protect their father's life.

Barry Jr. told newsmen in Honolulu that though "loyal, devoted and fervent people" were working for his father's election, some "rabid and venomous people" were dedicating themselves to his defeat.

He said there is "always the possibility that someone may make the attempt to kill Dad. It's just one of those things we have to live with."

When Goldwater flew in from Washington late Thursday he made it clear he was on vacation.

A group of newsmen, who had flown across the continent in a commercial plane ahead of Goldwater, was at the Santa Rosa Airport waiting for the GOP presidential nominee when he arrived in a private, two-engine plane.

Goldwater told them, "There'll be no press conferences."

And with that, the senator was off for what will doubtless be his last vacation of any consequence until after the November election. On Saturday he is expected to go to Newport Beach, Calif., where he will join his wife for three days.

The Bohemian Grove is an outgrowth of an old newspapermen's organization, the Bohemian Club of San Francisco.

The camp is so exclusive that reportedly one must pass through three guarded gates to enter, and then, curiously it is said to be surprisingly primitive, with small semicampsites dotting the forest.

History vs. Privacy

Suits Filed Over Harding's Love Letters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two court actions have entangled heirs and historians of a controversial president in a battle pitting the rights of history against the rights of privacy.

A $1 million law suit by the heirs of President Warren G. Harding seeks to suppress Harding's love letters to a married woman—and a biographer and the president of the Ohio Historical Society have clashed verbally over a probate suit tying up use of the letters.

"The Ohio Historical Society instigated court action in probate court in Marion in order to get rid of these letters, which Fred J. Milligan, society president, considered an embarrassing acquisition," Francis Russell, the biographer, said Thursday in a Plain Dealer interview. Russell made public parts of the letters a few weeks ago. Milligan retorted:

"This is an absolute falsehood. We were dealing with an estate. We went to Marion Probate Court to see if we had a right to the letters because the estate hadn't been settled. The judge issued an order that the letters belonged to the heirs. The judge ordered them sealed and turned over to an administrator."

The 108 love letters were written between 1905 and 1920 to Mrs. James (Carrie) Phillips, wife of a Marion department store owner.

Mrs. Phillips died in 1960. Square in the middle of the dispute between Russell and Milligan is Kenneth W. Duckett, curator of manuscripts at the Ohio Historical Museum. He was among those sued here

Cyclists Return Home After 5,500-Mile Trip

Stops at the Grand Canyon and Rocky Mountain National Park were the highlights of a 5,500-mile bicycle trip to the west coast from which Tim Starbuck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Starbuck of E. 12th St., and Richard Sidwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sidwell of Columbiana, returned Thursday.

Tired but happy and with memories of a never-to-be-forgotten educational adventure, Tim and Rich pedaled into Salem at 5 p.m. yesterday.

The boys, both 19, and students at the Barnesville Friends Boarding School, left Salem April 8, and traveled through Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and Oklahoma to Flagstaff, Ariz., where they stayed three days enjoying the sights at the canyon, and arrived at Pim Springs, Calif., on June 15.

There they were joined by Warren Stetzel, teacher at Barnesville, who accompanied them for a 10-day tour of the sights of California.

Starting homeward on June 25, the boys traveled a central route through Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Nebraska and the central plains states to Ohio. The last day out they bicycled over 80 miles from a point close to Mansfield.

The boys camped out each night in sleeping bags and prepared their meals along the way. They said the trip cost them approximately $450 for everything.

M'Donald Files For New Term

Beaver Board Asks Places for 2 Levies

County Judge James L. MacDonald of near Lisbon filed Thursday afternoon with the County Election Board at East Liverpool to seek a new four-year term at the Nov. 3 general election.

Judge MacDonald now is serving in a two-year term to which he was named in the 1963 general election. A resident of Lisbon RD 4, he is a former county prosecuting attorney.

The term for which he filed will expire Dec. 31, 1968.

The two other county judges were elected to four-year terms in 1962, so their tenures will run for two more years.

They are Judge Herbert Arfman, who presides in East Palestine, and Judge Luther Donbar, whose court is in Salem.

Judge MacDonald's name will appear on the non-partisan judicial ballot. The county court district is comprised of all the territory outside East Liverpool and Liverpool Township, which make up the municipal court jurisdiction in East Liverpool.

Meanwhile, the Beaver Local School District Board of Education filed resolutions asking ballot places for two levies, both to provide additional funds for current expenses.

The board asked a vote on an additional levy of 5.4 mills to be in effect for an indefinite period not to exceed 10 years.

It also asked a vote on renewal of a 1.6 mill levy that would be collected for five years.

The resolution on the 1.6 mill renewal was enacted by the school board on July 20, and the legislation for the 5.4 mill proposition was passed on July 23.

Stolen Car Found East of Columbiana

A new 1964 Chevrolet which was taken from the Parker Chevrolet lot at 292 W. State St. between 6 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. today was recovered near the intersection of Rts. 14 and 46 by Columbiana police.

The car was noticed in a driveway near the intersection by Tony Menagale of East Palestine, a mechanic at Parker Chevrolet. Police theorized that whoever took the car ran out of gas.

Plunges To Destruction As Planned

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Spacecraft Ranger 7 televised the first close-up pictures of the moon today and they look "extremely good," scientists said.

Ranger 7 crashed into the moon at 6:25 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time after a historic three-day flight. During the last few minutes before impact its six cameras apparently worked just as planned.

"We have good pictures," Ranger project manager Harris M. Schurmeier told a news conference at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which made and guided the spacecraft.

"The light level was good and video signals were good and the first quick prints made from film exposed by signals transmitted from Ranger 7 look exceptionally good."

"I think the public will be able to distinguish quite a few details when the pictures are released."

"If the pictures are sharply contrasted—with light and shadow—we ought to be able to see something the size of a few meters, say the size of a Volkswagen."

Ranger 7's six cameras were programmed to return 4,000 still pictures made from 1,300 miles above the moon's surface right down to the moment of impact. The first photographs, Schurmeier said, are expected to be released within 24 hours after a board of scientists studies them.

The last shots, he added, were taken a fraction of a second before impact and would cover an area of about 60 square feet.

Dr. Homer Newell, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told the news conference that this was an historic occasion and that the laboratory had received congratulations from President Johnson for what Newell called "a textbook

Three Held In Forgeries of Ohio Checks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Columbus detectives and Ohio Highway Patrol officers Thursday night arrested three men in connection with the forgery of faulty checks stolen from the state auditor's data processing center here.

They said one of the men, Joseph Morgan Daniels Sr., 44, of Columbus, admitted cashing 11 checks and would be charged with forgery. The other two men, implicated by Daniels, denied any part in the operation, police said.

A total of 1,576 incorrectly key-punched, unsigned checks valued at $437,806 disappeared from the state office before they were destroyed in accordance with office regulations.

By Thursday afternoon, 23 checks totaling more than $3,000 had turned up cashed. Meanwhile, the state auditor's office announced that the 22-year-old employee who should have destroyed the faulty checks had been fired. He was not identified.

Each of the checks contained the amount, but anyone cashing

House Unit OKs Poverty Plan

Republicans Serve Notice of Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Public Works Committee has approved a $1-billion revised version of President Johnson's Appalachia program and plans to ask the rules committee next week to schedule it for floor debate.

Republicans who fought the 11-state aid program in committee served notice after Thursday night's action they would fight the proposal on the House floor.

The bill would aid West Virginia and parts of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The program, scheduled to run until June 30, 1970, would provide an $840-million highway program for the 11-state area and $237.2 million during the first two years for public works, mine restoration and vocational education.

Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who heads an Appalachia study group, said after the committee action: "I am most encouraged and most hopeful that the bill will pass Congress this year."

Committee approval in its fifth closed-door session on the bill, came on a voice vote. Rep. William C. Cramer of Florida, the committee's second-ranking Republican, said no effort was made by the committee to improve the bill.

"I can't imagine why anybody would want to vote for discriminatory legislation like this," he said.

The revised bill, introduced July 20, increased the highway program from $645 million, broadened aid in coal mining regions and eliminated the Appalachian Development Corporation.

It also added six counties in South Carolina and nine in Ohio and Kentucky to those who will get the aid.

Cemetery Charged With Racial Bias

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — A civil rights suit was filed in Circuit Court Thursday charging a Peoria cemetery with racial discrimination against the dead.

Billy V. Clemons, 33, a Negro, charged that the Memorial Gardens Association, which operates the Swan Lake Memory Gardens Cemetery, refused to sell him two adult burial plots.

Clemons' suit, which asks $1,000 damages, also alleges that an agent from the association informed him that another cemetery was the only one in the city where Negroes could be buried.

In his suit, Clemons said he was informed by the corporation that he could not purchase the burial lots because of litigation pending on racial deed restrictions in force when they purchased the property.

Five Children Die In Baltimore Blaze

BALTIMORE (AP) — A mother tried in vain to save five of her children, all under 8 years old, who perished in a fire that swept their home Thursday.

Found dead huddled in a corner of their third-floor apartment were Cassandra Jane Clark, 7; Beverly, 6; Duane, 5; Reginald, 4; and Fannie, 3, all children of Mrs. Norma Jean Clark, 31. The mother, who was on the first floor, said flames from the second floor repulsed her attempts to climb the stairs to her trapped children.

A 10-year-old daughter, Veronica, escaped from the house and another child, Floyd Jr., 12, was not at home when the fire started.

Tale of the Cities

The population ranking of Ohio cities according to population inside outdated municipal boundaries is a threadbare statistical monstrosity.

Nevertheless, the Ohio Department of Development has submitted a new list based on estimates as of last Jan. 1. It ranks Ohio's largest eight cities as follows:

Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, Akron, Dayton, Youngstown and Canton. These comprise the over-100,000 group, with Parma coming up fast at 97,458 and Springfield closing in with 83,427.

The statistical monstrosity is revealed when this ranking is compared with the U.S. Bureau of Census ranking of urbanized areas. These areas consist of a central municipality and the built-up urban area surrounding it.

RANKED by urban areas as they existed in 1960, Ohio's eight largest cities are Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Akron, Toledo, Youngstown and Canton. But the real discrepancy is not in ranking but population totals.

Canton, in eighth place in both lists, is credited with only 113,171 in the Ohio Department of Development revised list, a few hundred less than its population in the 1960 census. In the urbanized area list, however, Canton is credited with 213,574.

To show the misleading effect of unrealistic statistics still further, Canton is credited with 340,545 in the Census Bureau's list of standard metropolitan statistical areas, meaning areas whose activities form an integrated economic and social system.

Ultimately, these metropolitan areas will be the "city states" that will make up the nation. Municipalities and even states ultimately will become subordinate, as they already are in cases where metropolitan statistical areas include two or more cities and parts of several states.

IT IS INTERESTING to note in this connection that the Cleveland metropolitan statistical area, Ohio's largest, contains 1,796,586, compared with only 863,755 in the revised list offered by the Ohio Department of Development.

Obviously, the smaller figure has no significance. Just as obviously, the listing of Columbus as Ohio's second-largest city, ahead of Cincinnati, is grossly misleading.

In the metropolitan list, both Cincinnati and Dayton are revealed to be much larger than Columbus.

Everything But the Noise

Each of us in this generation owes a debt of gratitude to Oklahoma City for saving our eardrums and peace of mind. At the end of this week, a six-months test of sonic boom testing over Oklahoma City ends.

The purpose was to learn how much noise people could bear if government efforts to develop a supersonic airliner in competition with England, France and, presumably, Russia are successful. Eight times a day the U.S. Air Force broke the sound barrier over Oklahoma City, to test the people's tolerance for sonic booming.

The testing revealed what had been suspected. The tolerance was used up in a hurry. The Federal Aviation Agency, which ordered the tests and supervised them, learned that the nuisance was even greater than had been realized.

Only one conclusion was possible. A supersonic airliner capable of flying 2,000 miles an hour would be intolerable, unless some discovery not now anticipated reduced its anticipated noise level. Even the military planes used over Oklahoma City broke windows, cracked walls and wore out the patience of residents.

As a result, FAA now realizes that development of a supersonic airliner must be accompanied by development of a noise inhibitor, or the airliner would be useless.

If We Were Senators

If we were senators we probably would feel as most senators feel—that our private affairs are none of the public's business.

We would balk at any move to make us disclose what axes we might grind if we found someone to turn the grindstone.

We would be shy and diffident about disclosing what backs we aimed to scratch, what logs we were trying to roll and repairing.

We would stand stiff-legged on our individual rights and senatorial dignity, which is what most senators have done in disposing of a Senate Rules Committee proposal for annual disclosure of outside financial interests.

And, being senators, we would smooth things over by supporting, instead, a proposal for a 17-man study group to hem and haw for two years over ideas for sprucing up senatorial procedures and, presumably, senatorial prestige.

The catch is, we are not senators. We are constituents of senators. We are taxpayers. We are ordinary citizens agitated at the antics of Bobby Baker when he was secretary of the Democratic Senate majority and flabbergasted at the thought that things like this—and worse—can be kept under the carpet by the same people who can call the rest of us on the carpet and ruin us with an investigation. If they don't like the way we are running our lives.

That's the difference between senators and the rest of us. We don't think they should.

Issues for the South

One tactic to be used by liberals of both Democratic and Republican parties against Senator Goldwater will be to associate him as closely as possible with the segregationists or "extremists" of the Deep South.

Civil rights is only one issue involved in the GOP presidential nominee's attempt to win the South's electoral votes.

Other equally important issues which may endear him to Southern voters are fiscal soundness in operation of the federal government, less centralization of government in Washington and the menace of Castro in Cuba.

Were Sen. Goldwater to ask the support of the South solely on basis of his stand on civil rights, he could expect little help. He has stated several times that he is opposed to discrimination against Negroes and has said, "I'll stack my civil rights record with any white man in this country."

In addition, he has stated he will enforce the Civil Rights Act, though he voted against it because of two sections he opposed. He also has said he would not attempt to repeal the Civil Rights Act.

Thus, if Sen. Goldwater is to gain ground in the South, it will have to be on basis of his conservative philosophies in regard to federal spending, foreign aid, centralization of government and his opposition to the administration's foreign policy.

Civil rights may be the most emotional issue of the 1964 presidential campaign but it isn't the one upon which Barry Goldwater hopes to win the South.

My Hate List

By Truman Twill

If this is to be the year of the Big Hatreds—and it's shaping up that way—here's my updated hate list:

Cucumbers in sour cream, scrambled eggs that taste as if they had been in the nest too long, politicians who say one thing and mean another, magazines that hide page numbers so you don't know where you are;

Motorists who beep horns to make traffic move on their peremptory order, television plays that omit the third act, traffic lights that gum up traffic at intersections which should have four-way Yield signs instead, cracker packages in restaurants that should be opened for customers by the waitresses (customers don't go out in the kitchen to open cans, do they?);

Writing implements that stain the fingers, saloons that give a customer one olive in a double martini, children who shuffle, whine, twist and writhe, a public policy that permits privately owned autos to be defaced with runny road oil in the summertime and corrosive salt in winter;

The stench of rancid cooking fat blasted into the faces of passersby by restaurant ventilating fans, stretch socks that shrivel up to doll size and must be pulled over my size 9½ feet by main force, toll road filling station attendants who fill your mind with doubts about your fan belt and other moving parts in hope of making a quick sale;

Restaurant coffee that tastes like it might be a chaser for a therapeutic brew but is not coffee, football training camp stories that refer to men under 200 pounds as "small" and under 170 as "frail," sadists who encouraged knobkneed women to display their handicap in public;

The perversity of nature that makes grass grow in the driveway but not in the lawn and weeds flourish where flowers wither and die, the fact that beauty contest winners whose pictures I see never pass my way where I can enjoy the three-dimensional effect;

Ice tea that tastes like something scooped out of the Missouri River in floodtime, supercilious hotel and motel clerks who speak of the reservation you don't have as if you were trying to pull a fast one, people who try to tout me off my total admiration for Jacqueline Kennedy;

Tracts that run along glibly as if reciting facts when the facts are tissues of fractional truths and outright lies, strangers who impose on my Sunday time off by trying to convert me to their religious views;

And, most of all, people who tell me what I must hate in this Year of the Big Hatreds. Thanks, fellow misanthropes; I have my own hatreds—and you're right up there at the top of the list.

"In a Nutshell Sir, My Request For a Buck Is Part of My Personal Campaign to Alleviate the Nation's Critical Coin Shortage"

Fertile Ground of Freedom

IBADAN, NIGERIA

Victor Ebo

The "white man's graveyard," they once called huge areas in this country. Now some still talk of it as the white man's hospital. Let those who write about ugly Americans come to this nation, not only to the big cities such as this one or Lagos, but to the outlying districts, as well. Let the formulators of the phrase "ugly Americans" follow scores of sacrificing Americans into the malaria swamp regions or into the tsetse fly country where the pestilence and "sleeping sickness" carriers breed on millions of bushes.

I have passed alongside some of the mangrove swamps and talked with men who teach the farmers how to cut down the bushes on which the tsetse fly hangs upside down, breeding by the millions, and swarming in on cattle and even humans.

That terrain is ugly, not the Americans who have come here to help the most congested and freedom-loving nation in Africa smash through the thousand-year-old tradition barrier.

THIS IS A LAND of 45 million people, of whom only two million are in a money economy and in which 80 per cent are illiterate.

This is a nation, reaching its hands and heart out to the Western democracies, which ranges from the Emir's domain centering around Kano in the north to jujus chiefs in the south, and from skyscrapers in Lagos and the ultra-modern university here in Ibadan to the tsetse fly country on which it borders.

This means a range from the oriental-type court of the Emir, replete with men in the armor of King Arthur's court, to electronic computers. When an Emir is enthroned the pageantry outdoes Hollywood.

Two thousand horsemen charge at furious pace. Men in mail-armor strut about. Lancers exhibit ancient skills such as picking up dime-sized objects while mounted on swiftly racing horses.

Subjects crawl on their stomachs to approach the Emir. Yet he goes on television and radio and tells his people of their rights and is sincerely attempting to bring them out of the 11th century.

HELPING HIM is our government through the Agency for International Development (AID), which has a Teacher Training College in the Emir's capital at Kano.

It was to us that Nigeria's President Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe turned for help in building a national higher education system to turn out teachers, technicians and agronomists. Too many young Nigerians now are abroad studying to become lawyers so they can become politicians when they return home.

We helped. It was not easy for the Americans who came—especially those from Michigan State University who built a completely new University of Nigeria out of the mud of some areas and the dust of others.

These American teachers went to the isolated villages of Nsukka and Enugu. When they began building the main campus at Nsukka there were few streets, no electricity, meagre water supplies and merely a collection of mud-block buildings and bamboo sheds—also, considerable disease.

There was not much more at Enugu, the second "campus" site, where there is at least one modern hotel today.

AT NSUKKA there is still horrible heat, throat-cracking dust, little air conditioning, and the only facilities for recreation are the cement tennis courts which bake in the tropical sun, a makeshift faculty club for makeshift drinks and an infrequent 16 millimeter film.

Occasionally things go rough. Once in 1962 the students, coming from many tribes, menaced the faculty. Vice-Chancellor George Johnson of Michigan State, on loan, called in the riot police.

Here in Ibadan during the general strike workers at the university threatened some geology students who were taking an exam on rocks. The students drove off the strikers with a barrage of the stones and then went out into the yard to collect the pieces, reassemble them and continue with the test.

Professors from other universities have interrupted their careers to help.

THEY HAVE come from the University of Wisconsin, New York University, Ohio University, UCLA, Western Michigan and others from Florida and North Carolina colleges.

Thus Nigeria dissatisfied with the British system of building an elite of a few scholars, has been able to create with our help five universities in four years.

It's help well deserved. This is a nation dedicated to free speech, free government and free enterprise. Here there is little of the talk which one hears all through Africa of a strong man, or a one-party system or socialism.

This government, in addition to the help our government is giving it through a commitment of $25 million in the next few years, needs an additional 90 million a year in private investments. It deserves it, for it is the fertile ground of freedom in a troubled continent.

Church's Role In Civil Rights

By DAVID LAWRENCE

David Lawrence

The racial problem in America isn't going to be solved by any laws or court decrees or by government handouts of money. Delay in ameliorating the whole situation will be prolonged, largely because the true nature of the conflict is not generally understood.

Government can improve the economic lot of some layers of the population but it cannot help those who are indigent or incompetent, nor can government abolish discrimination or a sense of inferiority merely by decreeing that there shall be equality.

Not many years ago a Negro poet of prominence wrote to this effect: "We don't really want to be just equal — we want to be white." Yet assimilation of the races has proceeded very slowly throughout the world. Many of the better-educated Negroes in America have achieved a high status in their communities, but even they are not free from the barbs of discrimination under certain circumstances.

Only those human beings of any color or race or creed who have suffered the pangs of bitterness that arise when discrimination confronts them can understand what is at the bottom of the whole racial conflict today. It's not the problem of any one country.

The London Daily Telegraph on Monday of this week had a big headline on its front page about the riots in Rochester — a community which, by the way, has done much in recent years to advance the cause of the Negro in employment and in community life.

THE TELEGRAPH said editorially:

"It is a salutary coincidence that racial rioting in Singapore should have been taking place at the same time as the outbreaks in New York State and City. In British Guiana, too, racial rivalry has become crystallized as a clash between Indian and Negro.

"All this violence, in widely differing circumstances, is a manifestation of tribal animosity that survives even in the most advanced societies: Mistrust of the stranger, however thoroughly established, as long as he can be identified by the color of his skin or some other outward characteristic. Of course, his produces a reaction by the 'strangers,' the more violent as they begin to claim their rights and to feel their strength.

"That is what is happening now in the United States, although in Rochester as in Harlem there has been a large injection of senseless hoodlummery, without any motivation of conscious social protest.

"This element will be found in any such situation — as well as more sinister figures provoking or exploiting the trouble. Liberal ordinances are not, by themselves, an effective prophylactic. The civil rights only just won for the American South are already enjoyed by the Negroes who have been rioting in New York City and State.

Remembering Notting Hill and Nottingham, we in Britain cannot claim to be free from color prejudice. It is a challenge to the liberal outlook everywhere — but a challenge to the head no less than to the heart.

Prejudice cannot be legislated away. The sensible thing, therefore, is to admit its existence and take measures to avoid its violent manifestation."

WHAT'S THE ANSWER? A change in human nature? And how can this be accomplished? Unfortunately, most of the churches have muted the call. Sincerely desirous of achieving civil rights for all, the big church organizations have mistakenly chosen to operate by political methods and demonstrations. This has served in many cases only to intensify the situation. For preachers to argue that civil disobedience is justified helps to encourage those who would resort to violence.

Negro churchmen themselves have faced a difficult conflict. They have been denounced by their parishioners for failing to take any aggressive stand in the controversy James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said on the TV program "Face the Nation" last Sunday:

"The Negro community in the South is centered around the Negro church, and thus it is considerably easier to maintain the non-violent emphasis than in the North. Now, the word 'non-violence' in Harlem is a very bad word indeed.

"It's possible to point out that we will be shot down, that we are outnumbered and thus we cannot effectively fight back with violence.

But it is impossible if he speaks of turning the other cheek."

PLAINLY, there is much to be done by preachers of every creed to persuade people everywhere that to rely on the divine spirit for guidance is a prerequisite to the winning of justice from other citizens. While physical force may for the moment satisfy passions of anger, it does not solve anything. Churchmen and spiritually minded laymen have the principal mission in the turbulent society of our day — and it's going to require a long time and plenty of patience to get results.

Matter of Fact

The sea lamprey, an eel-shaped, scaleless fish, was once considered a delicacy in Europe during the Middle Ages. Henry I of England is said to have died after stuffing himself with them. The sea lamprey is also a deadly parasite which attaches itself to other fish and sucks their blood. During the early thirties sea lampreys somehow invaded the Great Lakes and almost succeeded in wiping out the trout population until the federal government brought the pests under control.

Church Building Formula

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "Thank you," wrote the minister, "for taking us out of the beggins business."

The letter is a prized possession of A. B. Culbertson, whose germ of an idea a decade ago turned into a bustling investment business.

His idea also built hundreds of churches for booming suburbia.

The problem simply was this: Persons moving to the new suburbs are burdened with mortgages, car payments, the need to put up at least a decent front.

These people do not have $2,000 or $3,000 each to contribute toward building a church.

But Culbertson knew their credit was good.

Basically, says Culbertson, "We've given responsibility to church obligations."

Church members, possibly meeting in someone's home or in a school, agree to a bond program to build a church structure.

Culbertson makes the arrangements and the church members sell the bonds. Mostly they sell bonds to themselves, borrowing the money from a bank.

The bonds are secured by the church property and are paid, along with the interest, from regular Sunday contributions.

"It is a self-propelling proposition," says Culbertson, a spry, 70-year-old Baptist layman. "We just ride herd from the moment we sign up a church until the last bond is paid for."

Most savings and loan associations ignored churches' financial needs 10 years ago. Culbertson said in an interview. Bank standards were too rigorous to be met by new, struggling churches.

"Now they're bidding for church loans," Culbertson said.

Culbertson said three factors contributed to the widespread demand for new churches:

The population explosion, influx of people from rural areas to suburbia.

Success of the A. B. Culbertson & Co. formula is reflected in hundreds of churches across 14 states.

Culbertson began by experimenting with a loan to a group in Borger, Tex.

"It was successful, and we just started rolling," he said.

"There was no church loan competition then and it was pitiful how folks were trying to get people to help them."

The Culbertson concern now services about $85 million in church and institutional loans.

"There are great spiritual and moral resources backing these investments," he declared. "Even during the depression, banks failed and businesses closed, but by and large churches paid their debts — not all at that time, but they paid them, 100 cents on the dollar."

History Today

Today is Friday, July 31, the 213th day of 1964. There are 153 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1777, the Marquis de La Fayette offered his services to the struggling American colonies. Congress promptly accepted the offer and made the French nobleman a major general.

On this date: In 1877, Thomas A. Edison took out an early patent leading to his later development of the phonograph.

N. Rhodesia Troops Kill 65 Tribesmen

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Determined disciples of the fanatic Lumpa religious sect were reported massing today in another area of Northern Rhodesia after government forces mopped up their headquarters village.

The Northern Rhodesian government said its troops killed 65 Lumpas and wounded 50 more of the warrior-tribesmen who made a suicidal charge Thursday from the village of Sione — Zion — in the Chinsali area 500 miles northeast of Lusaka.

Previously the government had reported 30 Lumpas and 11 others killed in more than a week of violence. In addition, refugee Africans have reported the Lumpas massacred 200 inhabitants of two villages near Sione.

Police said a large concentration of the sect was reported gathering at Chipundu, 70 miles south of Chinsali. Officials feared the fighting would spread through Northern Rhodesia's bush-covered northern province, an area as large as Britain.

The followers of Lumpa prophetess Alice Lenshina showed no fear at Sione as wave after wave of them, armed with spears or old muzzle loaders, charged the troops, armed with rifles and Bren guns.

Columbiana Pair Attending Quaker Rally In Ireland

WATERFORD, IRELAND — Louis J. Kirk and Mrs. Florence Kirk Sidwell, both of Columbiana, Ohio, are among 165 Quakers from 25 countries who are attending the Ninth Triennial Meeting of the Friends World Committee for Consultation in this ancient center of Irish Quakerism.

Both are representatives here of Ohio Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends. Louis Kirk is an elder of Middleton Monthly Meeting. Florence Sidwell is a member of various friends committees and of the Inter-visitation Committee of F.W.C.C.

Florence Sidwell before coming to Waterford visited Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Poule in County Cahir, Ireland, and plans to tour northern Ireland before returning home Tuesday.

The eight-day gathering began July 21 and aims at enlarging and intensifying contacts among the world's 200,000 Quakers. Lectures, roundtables, and forums, in which Mr. Kirk and Mrs. Sidwell participate, seek new guidance and bases for possible action in matters of Christian renewal and unity, race relations, communication among Quaker groups over the world, peace and social welfare.

Police said Daniels, who has served two prison terms for forgery, admitted cashing some of the checks but apparently had nothing to do with the theft of them. They said a photograph automatically taken of Daniels as he cashed one of the checks led to his arrest.

Ranger

because that's what they looked like to ancient astronomers.

It is in such an area that astronauts may land in a few years.

It was hoped today's photographs would show the kind of terrain they will encounter — whether it's rocky and jagged or dusty and smooth.

The first camera was turned on at 6:07 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time with the spacecraft 1,300 miles away. At 6:08, the Goldstone Tracking Station reported receiving picture signals from it.

Soon, signals were coming from all six cameras—two with wide-angle lenses and four with narrow-angle lenses.

It would be an indefinite time, however, before quality and content of the picture transmissions would be known.

The Soviets' Lunik III photographed the back side of the moon from 40,000 miles away in 1959, closest pictures until today.

Ranger 7 smashed into the Sea of Clouds just below the equator on the left side of the moon's lighted portion right on schedule at 6:25 a.m.

A great cheer went up from scientists and newsmen assembled at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which made and guided Ranger, at word of completion of the cliff-hanger mission.

It was the first success in a $200-million lunar investigation program that has seen 12 straight shots go awry. The latest, ranger 6, was most heart-rending because it looked perfect until the final seconds when cameras wouldn't go on.

Ranger 7's two wide angle cameras started functioning on command 16 minutes and 40 seconds before impact at an altitude of about 1,300 miles.

Four narrow angle cameras started transmitting three minutes later.

A spokesman said there was no interruption during the entire transmission as the 806-pound insect-shaped spacecraft streaked toward the moon at 5,800 miles an hour.

Tracking experts said the straight-line distance to the moon at the time of impact was 228,686 miles.

Ranger's path to the moon was curved and it took 67 hours, 35 minutes to make the 243,665 mile flight.

Ranger 7 was launched Tuesday morning from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Some of the pictures for which scientists were waiting were expected to show objects the size of an automobile.

Atmospheric conditions prevent telescopes on earth from distinguishing objects less than a quarter-mile in diameter.

The closest pictures made in the past ranged 37,000 to 43,000 miles from the moon. These photographs were taken by the Soviet Union's Lunik III, which focused on the dark side of the moon Oct. 7, 1959.

With the pictures expected from Ranger, designers of the future Apollo moon craft hoped to determine whether American astronauts would have to land on a smooth or rugged surface.

The Sea of Clouds, a relatively flat plain southwest of the center of the visible side of the moon, is being considered as a possible landing spot for the Apollo craft in 1969.

Twelve previous U.S. probes of the moon have failed — six of them in the $200 million Ranger program.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The end of the matter; all has been heard. Fear God, and keep His commandments; for this is the whole duty of man.—Eccl. 12:13.

The duty of man is plain and simple, and consists of but two points: his duty to God, which every man must feel; and his duty to his neighbor—to do as he would be done by.—Thomas Paine.

25,000 Appalachian Migrants In Chicago

Thousands Seek Jobs, Find Despair In City

CHICAGO (AP) — For thousands of Southern Appalachian white persons a journey northward represents the hope of an end to poverty and deprivation. But for many of the 25,000 migrants living in Chicago, the city has meant only continued despair. Uneducated, unskilled and unaccustomed to city ways, the migrants find the transition from backwood to urban setting almost impossible.

Part of President Johnson's antipoverty bill is aimed at correcting the economic conditions that drive the migrants northward. But the dislocated migrants also have become a welfare problem in Chicago, where they have settled in a five-mile-long, one-mile wide area on the North Side known as Uptown.

One of the biggest problems for the migrant is exploitation," said Dewey W. Wood, director of the Chicago office of the Council of the Southern Mountains.

The migrants pay $27 to $35 dollars a week rent for unbelievable apartments. Often four families (of six or seven persons each) share the same bathroom," Dewey said.

Exploitation, added to the higher cost of living in the North, often offsets extra wages the migrants may earn.

Wood says many of them would be better off at home in the security of their cathe-dral mountains. But, he asks, what more incentive to migrate would any of us need if our cash income for an entire 12 months was $600?"

Torn between the better jobs of the North and the yearning for the hills of West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, the migrants often pack up and go south again, only to return the next week.

Back home," Wood said, "they can squat on their haunches for hours on the porch of the county court house, but as soon as a number of them congregate on a corner here, they're picked up for loitering."

Harding

Monday for $1 million by George T. Harding III of nearby Worthington, the nephew of President Harding. George Harding's attorneys say the property rights to publication of letters always rests in the heirs of the writer.

Common Pleas Court immediately issued a temporary order against Duckett, Russell, the American Heritage Publishing Co. in New York and the Cleveland office of McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., stopping them from publishing, producing, copying or exhibiting the letters.

Byron E. Ford, attorney for George Harding, said Russell and Duckett had microfilmed the letters last fall without telling the Historical Society of their contents.

"My clients would like to destroy the letters, but I don't think that will happen," Ford said. "They want to suppress them. George Harding has indicated he will be willing to have the letters turned over to the Historical Society, provided the family can be protected against printing lurid details."

That is the point of the law suit, not the million dollar damages asked.

The original letters meanwhile are in a bank vault in Marion, under the custody of probate court, and the administrator of Mrs. Phillips' estate. Marion is the home town of both Harding and Mrs. Phillips.

The guardian of Mrs. Phillips before her death in 1960, Donald Williamson, Marion attorney, stumbled on the shoe box filled with letters in 1956, while having Mrs. Phillips' home searched for diamonds. No diamonds were found but estimates of the value of these letters to collectors range from $30,000 to far above $100,000, even without publication rights.

Last October Russell was in Marion checking a reference in a Harding biography to Mrs. Phillips, and Williamson permitted him to read some of the letters.

"You have dynamite here," Russell told Williamson, the attorney said.

Williamson replied: "I realize that."

Russell suggested giving the letters to the Ohio Historical Society, and Williamson did.

Russell said the letters came in when 50,000 documents from the Harding archives were arriving at the society, and for that reason the letters were put aside until April. It was then that the society decided to let the court determine if it had a right to the documents. But in the meantime, according to the Harding petition, Russell and Duckett had copied the letters.

Russell said the Harding letters are vital to an understanding of the late president's personality and to suppress them would be to suppress history.

Landis, Adviser To 3 Presidents, Is Found Dead

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—James M. Landis, 64, adviser to three Democratic presidents, was found dead in the swimming pool at his home Thursday night.

One of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's original "brain trusters" in 1933, Landis' final government post was as adviser on government regulatory agencies to President John F. Kennedy.

He was dean of Harvard Law School from 1937 to 1946.

In his early Washington days he was known as hard driving, a chain smoker and a good card player. He also had tramped over every Civil War battlefield.

A neighborhood boy found the body and tried artificial respiration. Landis was wearing swimming trunks. He had a history of heart trouble.

An autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of death.

Landis' career was marred 11 months ago by his conviction on a misdemeanor charge of filing late federal income tax returns. He had paid the taxes, and said the late filing was just "folly."

He was sentenced to 30 days in prison, but served it mostly in a hospital because of heart and nerve ailments.

Because of the conviction he was suspended from the New York Bar for a year.

Landis wrote the Securities Act of 1933 and became chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission two years later. He returned to Harvard in 1937. In 1946 President Truman named him chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Mrs. Arthur Heacock had as houseguests her granddaughter, Miss Janis Boster of Washington, D. C., and Miss Rebecca Shilts of Hudson.

Troop 82 Boy Scout Committee met at the home of Henry McNatt. Plans were made for a campout at Hidden Valley Lake and for participation in the Big Waters District Camporee at Camp Stambaugh Aug. 28-29.

Hopes Rise for Other Entombed French Miners

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (AP) — Feeble tapping heard again today from the limestone mine beneath Mt. Rivel heightened hopes that a 10th — and possibly an 11th — miner may have survived the cave-in four days ago.

The tapping was heard for more than four hours at irregular intervals last night, then resumed again at 6 a.m. A large drill was hurriedly installed above the spot.

Nine miners who escaped Monday's rockfall are being supplied with food, clothing and other necessities and appeared in no immediate danger.

The tapping came from a point where two of the five miners still missing were known to have been working Monday when a tunnel in the quarry mine caved in, entombing 4

Any other survivors, without nourishment for four days, would be near the limit of endurance.

Boy Scout Troops

To Camp at Leesville

Four area Boy Scout troops and a Mahoning County troop, comprising approximately 65 boys, will camp beginning Sunday noon at Camp Twin Spruce on Leesville Lake, according to Bennett Taylor, executive director of the Columbiana Boy Scout Council.

Troops that will attend are: Troop 1 — Lisbon St. George Catholic Church; Troop 2 — Salem Methodist Church; Troop 31 — East Liverpool Orchard Grove Methodist Church; a provisional troop, for all those who couldn't go when their troop went, and Troop 25 — Canfield troop.

This is the final week of Boy Scout camping, but over 50 Camp Fire girls will use the camp the following week, Taylor said.

By ALAN GILL

Now He's in the Business—II
Marty Ingels' mother always had it in the back of her mind—and in the front, too—that Marty would one day be a dentist.

"You know," Marty told me, "until just recently, I used to think of myself as simply Not-a-Dentist. But now I know I'm in the business." Show business is the one he meant. But Marty's final letting-go of the calling to dentistry had nothing to do with his mother's verdict last week upon his stock-company performance in "Enter Laughing." ("You're great," said Mrs. Ingels, wiping away a tear. "You're gonna be on Broadway and be another Barbara Streisand.") No, it has more to do with the fact that nice things have begun to happen for Marty. He recently married a beautiful little bug named Jean. He has been signed to play a leading role in two movies, the first of which, "Birds Do It," will have him air-borne as a young college professor who masters the rudiments of flying. He has filmed some commercials for a silly-sounding new breakfast food. (If you don't want to eat it, you can build with it.) And he has become the most cherished fixture of the Goodson-Todman game shows.

"I TRIED TO GET ON THE Goodson-Todman shows two years ago, but they weren't considering clowns as guests just then," Ingels said. "Then six months ago, I went through the Goodson-Todman 'marathon.' That's where they throw you in a room with some other would-be panelists and you go from game to game. It's like General Motors, with 'Get the Message' their Chevrolet and 'Missing Links' their Pontiac. If you're good on them, you go to the Oldsmobile ('Password'), the zippy little sportscar ('To Tell the Truth'), and finally the Cadillac ('What's My Line?'). As soon as you're finished playing one thing, they mop your brow, change your underwear, and throw you into the next contest. "Well, one of those Goodson-Todman moguls, Franklin Heller, suggested me for a little guest shot on 'Missing Links.' I did okay, I guess. But there was no word. The invitations stopped coming. I finally sent Heller a three-page poem entitled 'We'll Call You,' and all about a guy sitting by the telephone, waiting. He sent me back a note that stabbed me through the vital organs, saying why didn't I get a job closer to home—meaning Hollywood—and suggesting Schwab's drugstore and a local bank. "So I got a letterhead from Schwab's and sent Heller a letter saying that Marty Ingels was one of the funniest counter-men they'd ever had. I got a bank letterhead and wrote that 'we have a night watchman here who's the funniest guy around.'"

THAT DID IT. Summoned East, Marty appeared on "What's My Line?" three weeks ago and was an immediate success. He has been holed up on the daytime "Get the Message" all this week. And there are many more panel seats currently being warmed for him. Harold "Bud" Austin, the executive vice-president at Goodson-Todman, asked Ingels the other day, "If you could have a show of your own—any kind at all—what would it be, Marty?" Ingels clutched his heart as though it were beating out its final wild message. And the G-T people are currently working up something in the Ingels mold.

He rasped out in that voice which sounds like it is in need of a ring job. "I want to be a clown for America—everybody in the whole place. I want to be the kind New Yorkers go like this about." With his right hand he made a pointing gesture and covered it with his left. The gesture meant, "Wow, get him!" "I don't care if Shelley Berman doesn't like me or 'That Was the Week That Was' doesn't like me. I want the kids to like me, like they do Skelton, because this country is so hungry, so ready to laugh again!"

ROUND RESIDENCE ATTRACTS VISITORS—Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith, Haydenville, Ohio, say they have had more visitors since buying a round house in March than they have had in 30 years previous residence in the community. The house is bisected by a partition on each of its two floors, so there are four rooms each with two corners. The Smiths say anybody who shows an interest is welcome to come in and look around.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Efficient Jaw Joint Action Works Smoothly

Only lower jaws move. Just motions only when they are accompanied by some difficulty: snapping or clicking of the jaw; pain and tenderness over the joint; neuralgic symptoms such as pains which radiate into the ear and up the side of the head; burning sensations on the palate or side of the tongue. Sometimes both joints, right and left, do not work normally and you can't open your mouth very wide. But more often only one side is affected. When you open, your jaw will deviate to one side; toward the affected side. Try opening in front of a mirror to see how your jaw works. Besides normal wear and tear due to work load and age, the TM joint is subjected to many insults. Arthritis, which produces changes in the joint, infection and accident all take their toll. But it is generally accepted that one important cause of malfunction, probably the major cause, is poor occlusion (upper and lower jaws not coming together properly). Teeth or lack of them, or damaging habits such as bruxism (grinding of teeth) have much to do with the health of the temporo-mandibular joint. We become conscious of these

A PARAMOUNT RELEASE

Hints From

Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks: When you go to a drive-in, did you know that you could save money by taking your own trimmings and order hamburgers or any kind of sandwich WITHOUT trimmings? And this really mounts up if you have children.

Slice a tomato (don't remove the top or bottom... prevents leaks!) and put a toothpick or two through it, cut a few pickles, pick up a few leaves of lettuce and wrap them all in foil or waxed paper and carry it along?

These usually cost extra! Besides you can have as much or little of the trimmings as you want.

And who is going to know it? (You are eating in YOUR own car).

If you want to test this... JUST LOOK at the difference (usually in small print) on the menu where it says "lettuce and tomatoes EXTRA".

SAVE that extra expense. Besides you don't have to open all the hamburgers to see which has tomatoes, etc.

I have one friend who actually carries a bottle of hot sauce and some mustard in her glove compartment to use when they order barbecue!

It pays!

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: The hint from "Church Worker" about using an old record for a cake plate was really a ringer.

I thought how nice it would be for a two-shot gift.

My boss is a platter hobbist (he hates cakes). His son is a cookie and cake hobbist.

Now, if I can get the energy to buy my boss a lovely new recording, cover it with plastic wrap or foil and put a German echoclat cake on it for Sonny—don't you think both boys will be willing to let me keep my job for a spell?

BACHELOR GAL.

DEAR HELOISE: As usual, I overloaded myself while marketing today. I don't drive a car and have a 2-year-old son to hold onto. Have you ever tried to hold onto a child's hand and still use both hands to carry your heavy groceries for several blocks?

I have... more times than I care to admit! But today I solved the big problem.

I went to the dime store and bought an inexpensive dog chain. I put the hook end loosely around my son's waist running the chain through a few of the loops on his blue jeans, hooked it, and held the other end of the chain with my hand and was able to carry my two bags of groceries.

Maybe people thought I was a nut but the walk home wasn't half bad! And my son didn't mind a bit. Sure put my mind at ease about him darting out in front of a car.

JUDY B.

DEAR HELOISE: There are just two of us in our home and we can never eat a whole can of vegetables. So before cooking, I take out the portion we don't need and put it in the freezer to be used later in soup, stew, or mixed with other vegetables.

Never cook all of the canned vegetables beforehand if you are not going to use them as they get mushy when reheated.

RACHELLE SANDERS.

DEAR HELOISE: To all those who have teen-age daughters who haven't learned to cook but who represent authority:

Try giving your daughter one night a week with full decision on menus. Go over the menu with her ahead of time and offer suggestions—then stay out of the kitchen until called for dinner.

The first time or two may not be masterpieces but reasonable praise and a good appetite will really work wonders.

D. C. H.

DEAR HELOISE: Our children have outgrown their training cups so I put the cups in the glove compartment of the car. Now when we stop for a snack, I empty their drinks into the training cups. No more spills in the car.

Beauty for the asking

By JOSEPHINE KAERCHER, Beauty Consultant MERLE NORMAN COSMETICS STUDIO

Summertime is vacation time for most of us, and for many of us, on these long, bright, warm sunny days, even if it isn't vacation, we're likely to be much more active physically. We swim, play golf or tennis, sail, hike, spend lots more time shopping, getting warmer by the minute.

This increased activity, delightful as it is, has its pitfalls, too.

If you tend to perspire, this is the time of year you can really ruin your clothes with just normal body evaporation. Some three million busy little sweat glands in each of us provide surface moisture for evaporation to cool the body and distribute skin oils.

The hotter the day and/or the more activity, the harder these glands work to increase the flow of perspiration for rapid evaporation upon contact with the air. Unfortunately, such areas as your underarm aren't very well-exposed to air and the moisture accumulates.

There's such a simple way to solve this problem. A wonderful new anti-perspirant, safe, gentle, effective and pleasantly fragrant as well, will keep your underarms genuinely dry—for days and days. You can literally cease perspiring under your arms.

Just apply this marvelous anti-perspirant at bedtime, three nights running—and, presto!—you can be underarm-dry up to 21 days without another application. Your own body chemistry will dictate your own needs, of course, but one bottle and self-applier goes a long, long way. Please do remember, however, that a good anti-perspirant will stop underarm perspiration, but—it is not necessarily a deodorant. So, to feel truly sweet and clean all over, and really comfortable, hex any hint of body odor with a mild deodorant.

Be as femininely lovely as you want to be and as the man in your life likes you to be. Please do call me, or drop me a line at this paper, and let me help you.

Not only will I introduce you to this fabulous anti-perspirant, I'll be delighted to give you an hour of beauty, show you three simple steps to a clear and lovely complexion, but I'll give you a complimentary make-up besides—all absolutely free.

You must admit, the price is right! Doesn't that prove beauty is for the asking?

The total cost of getting well is the true cost to consider. And, new brand name prescription drugs are so effective they almost always get you well quicker without the expense of refilling your prescription.

College All-Stars Handed 12-6 Setback In Drill

Cards Score 2 On TD Passes

Warfield Tallies With Aerial Also

By JERRY LISK
Associated Press Sports Writer
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — The College All-Stars who face the Chicago Bears at Soldier Field a week from tonight could be the scrappiest squad ever to meet the champions of the National Football League in the annual game.

No fewer than five flurries of fisticuffs broke out Thursday as the All-Stars yielded a 12-6 decision to the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals in a game-type scrimmage at the Cards' Lake Forest, Ill. College camp.

Unique rules gave each team the ball on its own 30-yard line and 10 plays to score. No extra points or field goals were tried.

All scoring in the two-hour tug-of-war resulted from passing. Veteran Card quarterback Charley Johnson arched touchdown passes spanning 70 and 24 yards to Sonny Randle and Billy Joe Conrad.

The All-Stars tallied on a running pass from halfback Tony Loric of Arizona State to flanker back Paul Warfield of Ohio State covering 45 yards.

In between was sandwiched a sporadic ground attack which started at least two All-Stars, fullbacks Matt Snell of Ohio State and 220-pound Willie Crenshaw of Kansas State, as disavantaged defense.

Snell smashed 49 yards in four tries, including the longest run of the scrimmage, a 24-yard scamper. Crenshaw, a real pile-driver, carried five times for 39 yards, once bowling 21 yards.

Coach Otto Graham was not elated or disappointed by the All-Stars' first all-out practice effort since training began July.

But Graham, and old pro himself with the Cleveland Browns, liked the hostility shown by his players who mixed it up whenever provoked.

"It showed our boys are beginning to get ready to play the Bears," said Graham.

Karras Helps Build Spirit For Detroit

By BERNIE KENNEDY
Associated Press Sports Writer
BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — There is a new, high spirited atmosphere at the Detroit Lions camp this year and the reason for it is simple — Alex Karras is back.

Karras, along with Green Bay running back, was suspended last year and was not allowed to play. But the suspension has been lifted and no one is as anxious to get back into the National Football League wars as Karras.

"Sure, it was tough sitting out last season," the giant defensive tackle said. "But that's all over, and I'm anxious to get back and help us win the Western Division title."

"I honestly think we have a good chance, providing we can stay healthy," he continued.

Without Karras, who had been an all-pro selection his last three seasons, the Lions slipped to a 5-8-1 record in 1963.

How much of this can be blamed on Karras' absence and how much came about because of a rash of injuries, cannot be determined.

But Coach George Wilson admits that Karras' loss was a terrific blow to the club, both on the field and in the morale department.

"Alex is great at keeping the team loose," said Wilson. "He has a real knack of keeping other players on their toes with his gentle, but effective, needling."

"I don't think we realized when we lost him just how much he meant to the over-all play of the club. But we found out as we went along that he was almost impossible to replace."

Mark My Word

By MARK W. MILLER

Is Major League Baseball dying? Some sports fans are quick to point out that our national pastime has dwindled almost into obscurity.

Television, and rapid growth in individual participation in summer outdoor activities are the reasons most frequently associated with the so-called decline in baseball.

Perhaps baseball isn't all it used to be, but it still ranks as the nation's most talked-about and publicized sport from early spring through mid-autumn, despite the fact that football begins its season in September.

If the popularity status in the two divisions of the Major Leagues seemed to be deteriorating, it certainly has made a tremendous recovery so far this season.

IN AN ASSOCIATED PRESS story Wednesday, baseball attendance showed an over-all increase of 716,050 fans, with better than two months still to play.

Maybe the three-way battle for the American League pennant, and the torrid race for the National League flag is the main reason for the surging interest.

Even at Cleveland, an increase of 17,246 fans has watched the eighth-place Indians play.

perform, and the hapless New York Mets have already played to 367,760 more fans than they did a year ago.

With Little League, Hot Stove and Babe Ruth programs, a stepping stone for some athletes to the big time, hundreds of thousands of boys and their parents each year become interested in the game.

As long as Major League owners are providing huge bonuses to outstanding college and high school stars every year it is doubtful that baseball will ever really die.

GRANTED BASEBALL may taper off in popularity in certain areas from time to time, but over-all it still remains our national pastime during the summer months and will for years to come.

Classic events featured every year by Major Leagues are the All-Star game, with the American and National divisions top players performing, and the World Series.

WITH THE LOCAL Hot Stove League program just about to wrap up another successful campaign, several men who deserve recognition for their hard work during the season, while SJBL President John Herman, Jr. was recuperating from a heart attack are as follows:

Bob Whitehill, Glenn Whitehill, Marty Polder, Bill Odorizzi, Ralph Mancuso, Charlie Mattevi, Joe Lyons, Roger Tuel, Pete Sanders, Steve Eskay and Don Abrams.

LOU SLABY, who carried on the Giants' "taxi squad" last season, is giving it everything he's got at the New York training camp at Fairfield University, Conn.

The all-time Salem great left for the training site a few weeks back weighing 245 pounds. He is being groomed for one of the line-backer spots on the Giants' defensive units.

So far the Giants have cut 10 players, and 15 more must go before the season opens. New York plays its first exhibition contest a week from today against the Minnesota Vikings.

The new catholic high school in Warren, John F. Kennedy, is seeking games on its 1964 football schedule for Oct. 3 and Oct. 31. Schools interested should contact the Mohawks' head coach George Landis.

Tebbetts' Psychology Backfires As Indians Lose 6th Straight

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
Birdie Tebbetts is a master of psychology — only sometimes the psychology backfires. That's what happened to the Cleveland manager Thursday night when Washington defeated the Indians 8-7.

Tebbetts shook up his club with a rash of fines and then the Indians shook up the Senators with a rash of runs. Cleveland had scored six times before most Washington fans were settled in their seats and Tebbetts was congratulating himself for waking up his team.

Unfortunately, the Indians also woke up the Senators. When Washington came back with seven runs in the sixth and added some clutch relief pitching by Jim Hannan and Ron Kline, Tebbetts and the Indians were back where they started — on the short end.

Two-run singles by Joe Cunningham and Dick Phillips were the key blows in the Senator splurge which put Washington on top. Hannan, who came on after the Indians hopped on Al Koch for five singles and a homer by Vic Davalillo in the first, pitched five shutout innings. The Indians got a run in the eighth and loaded the bases with two out in the ninth on three walks before Kline came on to end it.

It was the sixth straight loss for the Indians and fourth straight victory for Washington.

And it left Tebbetts wondering what a team has to do to win a ball game.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore belted Minnesota 7-4 and Chicago blanked Detroit 2-0 in the only other games scheduled.

In the National League, Philadelphia nipped San Francisco 4-3 in 10 innings, Pittsburgh swept, a doubleheader from Houston 1-0 and 8-3. Los Angeles ruined Casey Stengel's 74th birthday by whipping New York 5-3 and St. Louis won its sixth straight, dropping Chicago 5-2.

Gary Peters, who has been doing some fancy hitting for the White Sox, left the run-making to Bill Skowron and concentrated on pitching. His three-hitter stifled the Tigers and ran his record to 12-3.

Skowron produced both Chicago runs with a sixth inning triple as the third place White Sox moved two games back of the idle New York Yankees.

Runner-up Baltimore trimmed the Yankee margin to a half game by stealing some of Minnesota's thunder with a five home run barrage. Jackie Brandt connected twice and Earl Robinson, Dick Brown and Brooks Robinson had one apiece for the Orioles, who tied a club record for homers in one day.

Rookie Dave Vineyard won his second straight for the Orioles but needed ninth inning help from Stu Miller after Ron Henry smacked a pinch two-run homer.

Phils Edge Giants 4-3; Bucs Beat Colts Twice; Mets Lose

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer
John Briggs is a listening man's thinker.

In this case, Briggs, a Philadelphia rookie, was doing the thinking and the listening at the same time.

The mental feat, plus the two-run double that resulted from the triumph over S. Fran. in 10 innings Thursday night and boosted Philadelphia's National League lead to 1½ games over the second-place Giants.

The Phillies were in danger of tumbling from the top after the Giants took a 3-2 lead in their 10th. But Johnny Callison doubled, Tony Taylor was hit by a pitch and Richie Allen beat out an infield hit, all with none out.

Up came Briggs, using a different bat. It was Allen's longer and heavier bat, and the 20-year-old left-hander was trying it for the first time.

The ball shot out to the right. Callison and Taylor across with the tying and winning runs.

Not so fortunate was Casey Stengel, who celebrated his 74th birthday by watching his New York Mets lose to the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3. Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh moved into third place by sweeping Houston 1-0 and 8-3 and St. Louis defeated Chicago 5-2.

In the American League, Baltimore overpowered Minnesota 7-4, Chicago blanked Detroit 2-0 field wall for a double, sending and Washington outlasted Cleveland 8-7.

The Phillies led 2-1 until Willie McCovey smashed his 14th hom er in the ninth inning with one out. San Francisco then went in front 3-2 in the 10th as Harvey Kuen singled, took second on a wild pitch, went to third on a sacrifice and came home on a single by Willie Mays.

Gus Triandos homered for the Phillies in the third while Jesus Alou connected in the Giants' fifth.

The Mets appeared well on their way toward handing Stengel a delightful birthday present, the first victory over Sandy Koufax in their brief history. Bob Taylor had given New York a 3-0 lead with a three-run homer in the fourth.

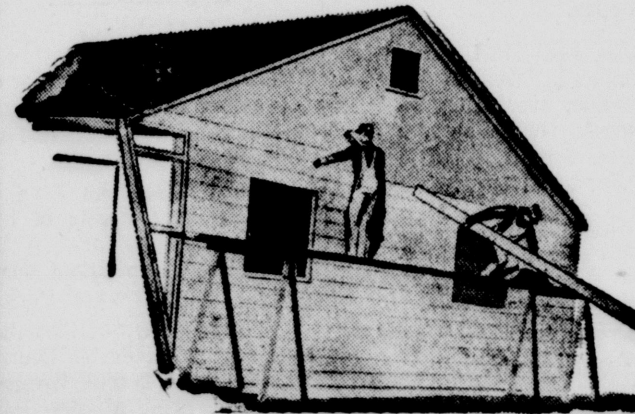

But the Dodgers scored two runs in the seventh on Jim Gilliam's single, Willie Davis' triple and an infield out, then tied the game in the eighth on a run-scoring double by Wally Moon.

who batted for Koufax. The Dodgers rallied for two runs in the ninth, Tommy Davis driving in the winning tally with a single.

The Pirates got tight pitching from Vernon Law and Don Schwall in their sweep of Houston. Law pitched a five-hitter in the opener and scored the only run on Bill Virdon's single in the sixth inning.

Schwall held the Colts scoreless in the nightcap until the ninth inning when a three-run outburst brought on reliever Al McBean. Jerry Lynch homered in the fourth and singled in the first two runs in the Pirates' seven-run sixth.

Bill White drove in four runs as the Cardinals increased their winning streak to six games, longest in the league this season.

Lilko Shoots 210, Leads Publinx Golf

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) —

Two roommates from Youngstown were making a big bid today for Ohio's 31st Public Links Golf Championship.

Bob Lilko, 37-year-old fireman, and Bob Kish, 20-year-old senior at Youngstown University, drove here together, are motel roommates and are just that close on the Possum Run Golf Course where the 72-hole medal play test went into its final round today.

Lilko, father of four and a former minor league second basemen, is leading the pack with 54-hole total of 20, three under par. He had a 72 Thursday.

Kish, who has played on the university's golf team for three years, used only 30 putts as he stormed out of the pack with a 68 for a 21 total which tied him in the runner-up spot with Jim Musille, 43-year-old Mansfield electrical plant worker.

Two strokes back at 213 were defending champion Lalu Sabotin of Warren, who needed 74 strokes Thursday, and Joe Lazor, 34, of Cleveland, who had 72. Only 64 of the original 252 entrants were still in the contest. The survivors had scores of 225 or under for the first 54 holes.

Directors of the Public Links Association tentatively awarded the 1965 tournament to the Tam O'Shanter club at Canton, where the first of the championships was held in 1930.

James (Scotty) Reston Jr. of Dayton, now one of the top columnists for the New York Times, won the 1930 event with a score of 296 and then hitchhiked home with the huge trophy and his set of clubs. Reston also won the following year at Canton Indian Springs, but the tournament has not been played at the Stark County city since then.

Tentative dates for the 1965 event are Aug. 2-6. Indications were that Ed Capri, coach of the Canton Bulldogs of the United Football League and a member of the public links board, will be named president for next year.

Invitations to sponsor the 1966 tournament were received from the Hidden Valley course at New Philadelphia and Hawthorne Hills of Lima.

Tinsley Strikes Out 11 of 12 Batters CIO 3816 Knocks Off VFW 7-3; Eljer Triumphs 12-5

CIO 3816 used the long ball to whip VFW 7-3 in junior baseball Class E action at Centennial Park Thursday.

Pitcher Farb Tinsley came on in relief in the fourth inning and struck out 11 of 12 batters he faced as his Eljer teammates knocked off Shaffer Ford 12-5 in Class F at Memorial Park.

Scott's Sports rallied in the bottom of the sixth for five runs to beat Bricker's 12-9 in Class G. Eagles was awarded a forfeit over Lions Club.

Stark's Colonial had two big innings as it handed Jaycees a 20-9 setback in Class H at Buckeye Field.

Ron Parlontieri scored the tie-breaking run to put CIO 3816 ahead to stay in the third. He reached base on a fielder's choice, and with two out, came racing home on a triple by John Paul Tolson.

Bob Rozeski hit a double to score Joe Maxim to deadlock the game in the second. He then iced the contest with a two-run home run in the fourth.

Five of the winners' six hits were for extra bases. Parlontieri tripled home Bob Luttmers, who had walked as he led off the sixth.

Larry Fester paced the losers (5-7) with a pair of singles.

Tinsley struck out the side in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, and fanned two of the last three batters he faced. He also assisted in the only other put-out as he grabbed a hot ground-er and threw the batter out at first.

The young Eljer pitcher, who started the game at shortstop, was also tough at the plate. He singled twice and walked twice in five tries, and scored four times.

Rich Royle led Eljer (8-6) with a pair of doubles and a single.

J. Brantingham led the losers (2-11) with a triple and single.

Scott's, down 9-7, tallied five markers in the sixth on a walk, couple of errors, two singles and a double by Gary Herron.

Russ Dawson and Terry Frazier led the winners (9-7) with a pair of hits apiece.

Tom Fisher paced Bricker's

(6-10) with two doubles and a single. Dave Sechler had a couple of hits.

Stark's Colonial Attic (9-7) were out 9-5, but came up with seven runs in the third and eight in the fifth. The winners took advantage of 11 walks and nine errors.

Dennis Sell, Mike Cosgrove and Mike Chamberlain had two hits each to pace Jaycees (8-7).

Tribe Starts Series With Tigers Next

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians return home tonight and unless they beat the Detroit Tigers in the first game of a two-night doubleheader, they'll have set a club season record of seven straight losses.

The Indians blew a six-run lead in losing to the Washington Senators, 8-7, Thursday night.

Jack Kralick (9-5) and Lee Stange (4-10) are scheduled to pitch against Detroit's Ed Rakow (6-7) and former Ohio State star Joe Sparma (3-3). If Kralick's ailing back or Stange's finger blister is not sufficiently healed, Pedro Ramos will pitch.

Cleveland started out Thursday night as if it was ready to snap out of the slump. Vic Davalillo, one of four players fined by manager Birdie Tebbetts for poor play the night before, hit his third home run of the season in the first inning. The Indians collected six runs on six hits and two walks before the Senators got a turn at bat.

But the Nats scored once in the second on three hits and finally chased Dick Donovan in the sixth when they rallied for seven runs. The final two came off Sonny Siebert, who was the loser.

Cleveland was leading, 6-5, in the sixth. With one out and runners on first and second John Kennedy bounced back to Siebert. Siebert's throw to second base pulled Chico Salmon off the bag to load the bases.

A balk by Siebert brought in the tie run. Jim King was walked purposely and Joe Cunningham, who drew a base on balls to start the rally, singled for the final two runs.

Harry's Rips Charlie's In County Event

Most of the action in the initial county softball tourney was packed into the first inning as Harry's Tavern whipped Charlie's Boats 10-4 at Kelley Field last night.

Merchants was awarded a forfeit over East Liverpool Gallagher's Market in the other game scheduled.

Harry's moved out in front to stay with a five-run first inning. A walk, sacrifice, error, fielder's choice, single and doubles by Whitey Moore, George Lingo and Wayne Walters produced the margin.

Charlie's retaliated with three runs in the bottom of the initial frame on a pair of walks and singles by George Begalla, Vince Weyan and Dick Dougherty.

The losers cut the deficit to 5-4 in the second, as they chalked up a run on a walk and singles by Dave Drakulich and Jim Weizenacker.

Harry's iced the contest in the fourth with three big runs on a walk, error and singles by Moore, Herb Williams and winning pitcher Bill Panzott.

Moore and Walters paced the winners with two hits apiece. Begalla and Weyan had a pair of hits each for the losers.

Gilbert's 67 Leads Event At Montreal

MONTREAL (AP) — The mere mention of Gibby Gilbert's name always brings the same question:

Who's he?"

But Gilbert, a 23-year-old from Hollywood, Fla., needn't be worried about his anonymity. They asked the same question of Arnold Palmer, once an unknown himself, when he scored his first pro golf victory in the 1955 Canadian Open.

And look where Palmer is today.

Gilbert, who has the initials C.L. in place of a first name, took a step in the same direction Thursday as he fired a four-under par 67 to take first-round lead in this year's Canadian Open.

"I was very lucky," he explained while still in a state of semi-shock.

I haven't won a nickel on the pro tour and I started last August. Some lawyers from Miami are backing me."

Gilbert shot a 34-33-67 against the 36-35-71 par of the rigorous Pinegrove layout to lead Bob Shave Jr. of Willoughby, Ohio by one stroke and a corps of big-game stars by several more.

Jack Nicklaus was three behind at 70 with five others and Arnold Palmer bracketed himself with six golfers at 71.

Gilbert's putter was his lethal weapon. He needed only 27 putts to get around the 7,090-yard course.

Jack's Pack numbered in the hundreds, Arnie's Army was counted in the thousands but Gibbie's Gang, according to his own estimate, was between 25 and 30 people."

Tied with Nicklaus were Bill Collins, Rex Baxter, Bob Rosburg Bob Verwey and Al Gelberger. Locked with Palmer at even par were Willie School, Howie Johnson, Harold Kneese, Chuck Courtney, Jay Hebert, Phil Giroux.

Defending champion Doug Ford soared to a 77 while the winners of the qualifying round, Charles Coady and Dick Sikes with 69s, found the course

Veep Prospects 'Slight', RFK Tells Visitor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy unloaded a major understatement Thursday with a single word.

A Brazilian visitor asked him of his prospects for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

"Slight," Kennedy said with a small smile.

The significance escaped those in the room. They were accustomed to throwaway answers to the question that had been asked of Kennedy countless times since his brother, President John F. Kennedy, was assassinated eight months ago.

Fifty-five minutes later, his message came through. President Johnson suddenly dropped Kennedy and others from his list of vice presidential possibilities.

Kennedy reportedly had received the news in person at the White house hours earlier. When it became public, Kennedy's future became more puzzling.

He has been riding high, along with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, in the vice-presidential preference polls. Audiences here and abroad shrieked his name and clamored for his attention.

Those close to Kennedy say he felt the Republicans' nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona diminished the chances Johnson would call on him. The attorney general has no illusions about his lack of popularity in the Deep South, where Goldwater hopes to fashion support for his states rights positions.

But friends who hoped Kennedy would be tapped professed time and again that the 38-year-old attorney general could give Johnson the most help in the highly populated Northeast.

That Johnson would concur was their fondest hope — until Thursday. And their gloom was evident.

SPACE TIMETABLE — America's astronauts plan to spend about 700 hours in space in the two-man Gemini capsule by the end of 1965. Chart above gives the breakdown on the four trips. Until now, all U.S. space vehicles have been manned by a single astronaut. The Gemini will bring team flights. Veteran Gus Grissom has been teamed up with John Young to pilot the initial test. The second mission will team James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White (pictured below), the first time that one of the original seven astronauts will not be represented. The two remaining flights have no definite crews. However, Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad are front runners for the fourth test, a tricky docking-in-space assignment.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I went steady with a handsome, irresponsible lush for three years. We became engaged on my 19th birthday and for two lousy years I've listened to his lies and nursed him through hangovers. Last week when he forgot where he had parked his car (for the 15th time) and came for me in a taxi, I decided I had had it. I returned his ring and told him never to call me again.

What I want to know is this: Everyone thinks of me as Lou's girl. Somehow I must get the word around that I'm no longer engaged. How would it be if I ran a small ad in the paper—something cute like, "I'm available again. It's all over between Lou and me," and accompanied the ad with a small picture?

All I want from you is a yes or no. No corny comment or sermonizing is necessary. —MISS DISEGAGED.

Dear Miss: No.

High Altitude

Dear Ann: Five years ago my husband and I moved to Denver. We have a roomy home, a beautiful backyard and the air is fresh and invigorating. My parents who live in a small city apartment come to spend a week with us every August. Before they pull up to our home it is their habit to stop at a market and buy three armloads of groceries. They also insist on taking us out on the town two nights during their visit, so they hardly could be free loaders.

My husband starts to complain the minute he hears they are on the way. After they leave I hear nothing but insulting remarks for days.

His folks are cold as ice. At our wedding his mother gave me a handshake. She never has kissed me in all the years I've known her. His father is a sour apple—too cheap to spend the money to come to see us, although I've invited them a dozen times.

My husband is beginning to chew at me about my folks again. What shall I say to him? —DENVER DONNA.

Dear Donna: Nothing you can say will make any difference, so save your lungs and enjoy that glorious Denver air.

The poor stiff you are married to was born in a deep freeze and never has had a decent relationship with his family. He resents the affection and respect he sees between you and the members of your family, so he must attack and criticize. Develop a deaf ear.

Lush and Lusher

Dear Ann: I have been married for 16 years to a man who works—when it doesn't interfere with his drinking, hunting, fishing or card playing.

I'm 38, my husband is 40. We never have had to do without anything because his mother sends him sizeable checks every few months. Have lost all love and respect for my husband because he is a loafer and a sponger. The only thing I can say in his behalf is that he is a good father to our sons and they adore him.

A man I met recently has taken a serious interest in me. I'm sure he would divorce his wife and marry me if I were free. She is a lush and has not been a wife to him in years. Their children are almost grown.

Please get your nose out of give me some realistic advice. Thank you.—POLLY BUT OT ANNA.

Dear Polly: So you think all you have to do is divorce your husband while your friend dumps his wife and you will live happily ever after.

Let's start at the beginning. A woman who would permit her husband to loaf around for years and accept checks from his mother contributed to the dependency which destroyed her love and his self-respect. So take a how for your share of the mess.

Stop making excuses for your cheating and get busy at home. Your marriage could use the energy that is being wasted elsewhere.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DIES AFTER LIE TEST

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—A 76-year-old Oberlin man died of an apparent heart attack Thursday at the conclusion of a lie detector test he had taken.

Roy L. Williams was still connected to the polygraph machine when he complained of dizziness and collapsed, said sheriff's investigator Michael Ondreyco. Ondreyco said Williams requested the test after a complaint was lodged against him by a young woman. Details of the complaint were unavailable.

Made In Pittsburgh

By BOB VOELKER

(For Hal Boyle)

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Chicago people say their city is becoming the new steel capital.

They claim the westward movement has swept the great steel center out of these wrinkled Ohio Valley hills and plopped it out there on the flat prairie.

Don't believe it, Chicago.

It was a statistician who started the story. He added up some figures and made some comparisons.

But the people here know better. They consider the spirit, and they say the spirit isn't likely to leave these hills.

For it was in Pittsburgh that a young nation grew its muscles of steel.

Pittsburgh steel made by the old-timers was more than steel;

it was sweat and blood and gloom and hope.

It was Pittsburgh iron that whizzed through the air at Gettysburg.

It was Pittsburgh steel that pushed railroads across the prairie. It was Pittsburgh steel that built so many of the great skyscrapers and bridges.

And it was mostly Pittsburgh steel that showed the Kaiser, and Hitler, and some others a thing or two about industrial might.

You can make your Chicago steel for paper clips and can openers. You'll never make foot-and-a-half-thick armor for battleships, as Pittsburgh has.

Make your steel for beer cans and gaudy auto fenders. You'll never make the Empire State Building.

You'll make Chicago steel with pushbuttons, with white coated technicians peering at dials and gauges. The production line will be machines.

In Pittsburgh, steel was made with shovels. It was made in thunder and fire in a smoky brilliance that glimmered off the rivers and filled the sulphur nights with sight and sound and smell.

It was made in weary, 16-hour days, by sweaty, grimy men putting down roots in a new world, by men who could speak but a few words of the English language.

That was the spirit that made Pittsburgh steel. It's a glory that cannot be erased, or stolen away.

Maybe, Chicago, the statistician will convince you that you are the new champion of steel. Perhaps, you will feel high and mighty.

If you do, you might — from time to time — slip off your crown of steel and read the inscription inside. It says: "Made in Pittsburgh."
